Employee Status

classified employees would be submitted by Thaxter to Selectmen. Thaxter noted that most towns had used similar designations, that the then board held several meetings with different persons and department heads from the town before the decision was made, and that if the designation weren't made, many capable people wouldn't have been able to serve the town.

Two members of the Planning Board, Chairman Glen Pratt and Vice Chairman John Bradley were recently exonerated of conflict of interest charges by the district attorney's office under their special municipal status.

Bradley had acted as an agent to obtain a building permit for a lot owner in Cohasset and was alleged to have violated the conflict of interest law. However, the district attorney noted that under the special municipal employee status, Bradley was exempt from the section of the law prohibiting a municipal employee from receiving compensation from acting as an agent or attorney for anyone other than the town in a particular matter in which the town has a substantial interest.

Similarly, Pratt had been questioned in violation of the law for purchasing and developing tracts of land in Cohasset as a business. No evidence was found in this case, as well, that Pratt as a special municipal employee violated the conflict of interest law by participating in any particular matter in which he, his family or business associate has a financial interest.

Town officers classified as special employees include: moderator, School Committee, Board of Health, Planning Board, Water Commissioners, Recreation Commission, South Shore Regional High School Committee, Registrars of Voters, Advisory Committee, special police officers, Auxiliary Police, Civil Defense director, deputy Civil Defense director, assistant town counsel, building inspector, Board of Appeals, Personnel Board, Conservation Commission and harbormaster.

Arbor Day Program

Students at the Joseph Osgood School presented a delightful program to celebrate Arbor Day. Theme of the presentation, directed by Mrs. Sandra Conklin, was a special thank you to the Cohasset Garden Club for its contribution of plantings at the school grounds. Mrs. John R. Hoopes, Jr. created the landscape design.

Children sang Spring songs. The program ended on a festive note with a maypole dance.

Cohasset Garden Club members Mrs. Grace Russell, who initiated the Arbor Day celebration 30 years ago, received a basket of flowers from the children on behalf of the Club.
